20 Nov: 4-5:30pm, Rocque Lab, Rhetoric

Geography Seminar: Tirdhreach Feasach: Irish Environments in Transition
At a time of ecological crisis, changing weather systems and species extinctions, how can we

At a time of ecological crisis, changing weather systems and species extinctions, how can we think differently about caring for wounded places and learn to create healthier relations with our environments? Work with artists who have 'stayed with the trouble' (Haraway, 2016). Monica de Bath, Cathy Fitzgerald, Pauline O'Connell and Seodín O'Sullivan in conversation with Nessa Cronin (NUIGalway Centre for Irish Studies), Patrick Bresnihan, Gerry Kearns & Karen Till (Maynooth Geography).

Earth Writings: Bogs, Forests, Fields, Gardens: 18-29 November. Preview 15 Nov. 20 Nov: Exhibition Launch, 5:45-6:30pm, Maynooth University Library

Highlighting eco-community engaged practices of artists working with peoples/natures in peatlands, woodlands, fields and cities in sw Ireland, the exhibit displays video, books, paintings, sketchings, grafted trees, & other works by artists: Monica de Bath, Cathy Fitzgerald, Pauline O'Connell and Seodín O'Sullivan. Curated by Karen E. Till.

All events are free and open to the public!

Funded by: IRC New Foundations STEAM Scheme, Kildare County Council Arts Service, Creative Ireland, Maynooth University Geography, MU Library, Space&Place/ÓmósÁite.

Events part of national GeoWeek sponsored by the Geographical Society of Ireland.

Image © Cathy Fitzgerald, Hollywood Forest, 2017.