

This is the first history of the commissioners for paving the streets of Dublin, commonly known as the Paving Board, looking at the organisation's formative years from the viewpoint of one of its most important officers, the surveyor Thomas Owen. From the 1770s to the mid-19th century the Paving Board were responsible for the paving, lighting and cleansing of the city. Granted sweeping powers by the Irish parliament, this organisation tackled problems still familiar to modern Dubliners such as traffic congestion, street paving, road works, waste removal, public lighting and anti-social behaviour. Prior to its foundation, the maintenance of Dublin's streets was a haphazard affair; the Paving Board took this misbalanced system and placed the city under one organisation capable, in theory, of helping the rapidly growing city cope with the changes it encountered. Their legacy can still be seen today throughout Dublin's historic core.

180pp; large format, colour illis.

- Paperback [Retail: €49.95] 20% discount: €15.95
- Hardback [Retail: €29.95] 20% discount: €23.95

Please mark the box beside any titles you wish to order.

Also available from Four Courts Press

"A fascinating study of the impact [of surveyors] on the rapid growth of Dublin and environs in the Georgian period ... the book brings the character of the surveyors, artists, frauds and rogues to life like the cast in a Sheridan play." – Context

"A revelation for anyone who loves old maps of Dublin."
 – Irish Arts Review

- 278pp; illis. Hbk. [€50.00]
50% discount: €25.00

Eloquently describing the remarkable history of Dublin's 24 bridges, from the oldest surviving, Mellows Bridge (1768), to the newest, Rosie Hackett Bridge (2014), this book is full of striking photographs, as well as reproductions of old maps and illustrations.

- 260pp; lrg. format, colour illis.
- PBK. [€24.95] 20% discount: €19.95
- HBK. [€35.00] 20% discount: €28.00

To avail of these special offer prices, please ring us directly or return this completed flyer to:

FOUR COURTS PRESS
 7 Malpas Street, Dublin 8, Ireland
 Ph. +353 1 453 4668
 info@fourcourtspress.ie

Please add postage:
 €5.50 for the first book,
 €1.50 thereafter.

These offers are not available via our website.

I wish to pay by: Cheque (payable to Four Courts Press)
 MasterCard Visa Debit/Laser

Card no: _____

Security # (last 3 digits on back): _____ Exp. date ____ / ____

Name _____

Address _____

Phone _____

These offers expire 29 February 2016